HAVE ARRIVED AND ARE NOW
ON EXHIBITION.

Will You See the New Styles.

The latest fabrics and fashions, not out of the boxes a week, are here for your approval. An hour spent among these beautiful stuffs will help you to plan that beautiful new dress. Won't you come while the bloom is on these fabric beauties?

Those New Silks.

In years of silk selling we have never seen the time when designer, dyer and weaver worked in such harmony. Cold type can tell next to nothing about these New Silks. It's best to see them here.

Black Goods

Of the most stylish kinds, with the rich lustre, deep dye and superior finish that go with first-class Black Dress Goods. It isn't worth while buying a cottony, cheap-looking black dress when a good one can be bought for so little at this store.

The Rise in Cotton.

Cottons will cost more if you put off buying to a later day. Every mark-up in the raw cotton market means something for you. To-day the Cotton and Muslin stock is at its best. Prices are higher than they were a year ago, but not as high as they will be. Why not buy now?

Sheets & Pillow Cases

Ready to Use.

What's the use of cutting, measuring and sewing when a made-up article can be had at almost the cost of the plain cottons? Don't ask how we do it, but figure the cost of the material and count the work, and see which way is the cheapest.

Wait for Us!

We will announce our Grand Millinery and Cloak Opening during the week. Don't forget. We have always made it a rule to carry the finest selected stock of Parisian Hats and Bonnets in the city, and this season's display will excel all former attempts. It will pay you to wait for us.

A Delightful Occasion.

The Sabbath-schools of Glade Creek, Bethesda, Apple Grove and Blue Ridge Hall held a joint picnic at Blue Ridge Springs on last Saturday, which proved a very enjoyable occasion to all who were so fortunate as to attend. Addresses were made by Revs. W. Y. Cline, E. R. Lunsford, Hon. P. F. Brown and Prof. P. P. Seay. Over 800 people partook of the bountiful dinner spread for their delectation, and yet quite a snug sum was realized from the remainder sold at auction after dinner. All honor is due to the committee for the successful manner in which the affair was conducted.

Pastors' Conference.

The pastors' conference assembled yesterday morning in the lecture room of the Y. M. C. A. hall, with Rev. E. B. Pollard in the chair. The meeting was well attended and interesting reports came in from all the churches. Rev. E. B. Locke; 28, selecting texts, Rev. J. C. Jones. The topic for the day, "How I Conduct a Prayer Meeting," was presented by Rev. Dr. Carson, of Greene-Memorial, in a very interesting and instructive manner, after which a lively general discussion of the subject by all the pastors of the conference ensued.

In the Hastings Court.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

The Remains of Col. Jno. E. Penn Laid to Rest Sunday.

The remains of Col. Jno. E. Penn were laid to rest in the family plot in the City Cemetery Sunday morning. The funeral procession from his late residence on Campbell avenue to the cemetery was the longest ever seen in this city, and at the grave a large encircling of sorrowing friends had gathered to pay their last sad tributes of respect.

Rev. Dr. Carson of Greene-Memorial read the burial service and the choir of the church, under the direction of Prof. W. E. Burnett, sang "Go Bury Thy Sorrow," and "Asleep in Jesus." After the burial, memorial services were conducted at the church by the pastor, Dr. Carson, and addresses were made by T. T. Fishburne and Judge Jno. W. Woods. The floral offerings were magnificent, most especially those offered by the members of the Roanoke bar and the stewards of Greene-Memorial Church, of which Colonel Penn was a member.

The board of stewards adopted the following resolutions: "Whereas, death has removed from our midst a member of this board, in the person of Col. Jno. E. Penn; and whereas, it is deemed fitting that this board take appropriate action respecting his death. Therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we hereby express our grief over this sad loss, and recognize in him a man faithful in all the relations of life, whether in the hall of legislation, on the field of battle, carrying forward the work of his church or in his home relations, he was the same unassuming, yet fearless and faithful exponent of the right."

"Resolved, That we humbly bow to the inexplicable dispensations of God, as did he in his life; that we also emulate his many virtues, and hereby express to his bereft wife and children our deepest sympathy."

"Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this board and a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother."

NEW Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY.

A Brief Sketch of His Life—Poverty's Loss Roanoke's Gain.

The Beverly Evening Times has the following concerning H. C. Meacham, the new Y. M. C. A. secretary, who is expected to arrive in the city next Friday.

Mr. Meacham was born in Jersey City, N. J., September 5, 1866. Soon after he removed to Springville, Penn., where his youth was spent on a farm and his early education secured in the public schools. He aspired to be a teacher and secured a certificate to teach when but 16 years of age.

He had an experience of seven months in a general merchandise store, and taught the first term of the school there, and alternated between teaching and clerking for some time, and afterwards worked at carpentering, as book agent, and at other available employments to secure funds to complete his education until he was 23 years of age, when he became financial secretary of the Rochester, N. Y., Young Men's Christian Association, serving in that position nineteen months, when he was asked to consider a call to Beverly and Quincy. He decided on Beverly, and located here July 1, 1892, and has served three years and three months in that position.

At the quarterly conference of Lee Street M. E. Church last night the pastor's salary was paid in full and the following was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That we, the members of Lee Street M. E. Church quarterly conference, in conference assembled September 30, 1895, desire to express by our votes our sincere regret at the departure of our pastor, Rev. U. S. A. Heavener, and pray he may have success both in the school and the pastorate; believing also that we voice the sentiment of nearly, if not all, of the members we represent. If in the providence of God he should be returned to labor among us we will most cordially receive him."

THE FLEE AND THE ACTRESS.

No Wonder That Modjeska's Face Wore a Set and Stony Expression.

Two fair actresses were conversing in a cafe on Powell street with the careless ease of their "profess." Their comments were distinct and audible to the occupants of an adjoining table.

They were chatting about a sentimental scene in which both had appeared on the previous night.

"And just at that moment when he pressed my hand," said one, "and I was supposed to answer with a sob, a flea—oh, such a bite!—began to torture me between the shoulders. It was awful—simply awful. I could not remember my lines. I could not make the sobs come. All I could think about was that horrid flea. I whispered to him, 'Put your arm around me quick.' And he thought I was fainting, and put his hand behind my waist and whispered: 'What is the matter with you, and why are you making such a horrid face? Are you ill?' What could I say? Nothing, of course, but fell back against a chair, and fortunately—oh, how fortunately!—hit it with my shoulder blade, just where that flea was. Then I swung to and fro as if in great mental agony, and thus got in a little scratching. It was just heavenly and did not spoil the scene a bit. When I went off the stage, I had my maid go over the place where that flea had bitten me with a hand brush. She said there was a spot there as big as a dollar."

"Modjeska told me," said the other, "that once at the California in the balcony scene in Juliet, when she was extending both hands and saying, 'Romeo, Romeo, where art thou, Romeo?' she got a nip in the ankle that almost made her cry out. She could not stop. It would have spoiled the scene, and for the minute she had to suffer. One of the critics remarked in his paper next day that during the scene Miss Modjeska's face wore a set and stony expression. And no wonder, poor lady!"

"When May Muir, who is very susceptible to fleas, is attacked," resumed the other, "she gets up and begins to dance. She can twist about and scratch anywhere while the dance is going on, and nobody notices her. Clara Morris told me that in the dying scene in 'Camille' a flea fastened on to her so viciously that if she had not reached back with her fan and dislodged it she could not have died with any decency. San Francisco is an awful place for fleas."

"Awful, awful!" coincided her friend as she settled with the waiter.—San Francisco Call.

Jumbled.

When a novice tries to write a letter with nothing in particular to say, the result is likely to be amusing. An English working girl on an emigrant ship is reported to have written thus to her former mistress: "I hope this finds you well as it leaves me. The ship is in the middle of the Red sea, and it is fearfully hot. I am in a terrible state of melting all day long. But, honored madam, I know you will be pleased to hear that I am still a member of the Church of England."—Youth's Companion.

Defined.

"How do you like my new trolley hat?"

"Trolley hat? It's very pretty, but why do you call it that?"

"Why, John says it's perfectly killing."—Brooklyn Life.

LOSS OF VOICE

After Acute Bronchitis CURED BY USING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A PREACHER'S EXPERIENCE.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va.
